1:30 – 2:15	Anne-Edith Vigneault, Medical Radiation Technologist, Yoga Teacher Saskatchewan B Conference Room Non-violent Communication Non-violent communication (NVC) is a process developed by Marshall Rosenberg in the 1960s. The concept of NVC assumes that the goal of all communication is to fulfill needs and that compassion is an innate ability to all human beings. In a setting of imbalance or discontentment, how do we reconnect with our essence and recover a sense of ease and harmony? This short introduction to NVC explores the various steps of harmonious communication as well as concrete application toward our relationship to ourselves, in our daily interactions with others and in the setting of Healthcare.

GENERAL INFORMATION

WHY YOU SHOULD PLAN TO ATTEND THE ANNUAL GENERAL MEETING

The AGM is a forum to facilitate discussion with the SADMS, SAMIM and SAMRT council. This meeting provides an opportunity for the membership to share their thoughts and concerns, to learn more about the activities over the past year, and to provide input on those activities and programs.

We are striving to make the education day low cost to members. But there is a catch – we need your involvement in this association. We need you at AGMs to hear what is going on, to participate, and to guide Council. So instead of thinking of it as just a business meeting – please try thinking of it as an opportunity to learn something about your associations.

Reminder – only registered members of these organizations are eligible to vote at the AGM.

CONTINUING EDUCATION CREDITS

Your Certificate for attendance for the AGM and Education Conference can be picked up at the registration table after the final speakers.

CONFERENCE EVALUATION

We need your feedback to improve our education offerings and conference planning. Please complete one of the evaluation forms that you will find on your table and then leave it on the table. The forms will be picked up after the conference ends.

VENDOR SURVEY

In order to improve our annual conference for our vendors, we need their feedback. Vendors, please complete the survey form that you will find at your exhibit table and leave it on the table. The surveys will be picked up after the conference ends.
